Loxon has improved six places in Chartis' RiskTech100® 2021

Loxon, a market-leading business solution provider in the field of lending, collection and risk management, has finished a prestigious 64th place in Chartis' RiskTech100® 2021.

Chartis Research is the market leader in risk technology research and analysis. Its flagship publication RiskTech100®, now in its fifteenth year, is still the most comprehensive independent study of the world's major players in risk and compliance technology across all industries and all types of risk, and is globally acknowledged as the go-to resource for clear, accurate analysis of the risk technology marketplace. Vendors are evaluated in six different categories: Functionality, Core Technology, Strategy, Customer Satisfaction, Market Presence, and Innovation.

"We're extremely proud that we're still the only ranked provider from Central and Eastern Europe in RiskTech100®," said Tamás Erni, CEO. "It's not easy to exceed the results of 2018, when we were the winners in the Customer Satisfaction category. However, we have continued to pursue improvement and innovation, and are strongly determined to achieve better rankings every year. I believe that improving six places, finishing 64th from last year's 70th, is a great honour and a strong reflection of our core values: to provide our customers with the highest quality service, continuous support, and answers to their problems using our innovative solutions."

"As financial institutions adapt to evolving market dynamics around credit and operations", said Sid Dash, Research Director at Chartis, "Loxon's strength in credit risk, and its ability to continue a functional expansion while retaining high levels of customer satisfaction, are reflected in its six-point rise in the rankings."
